EVERYMAN

Background

With our previous relationship and projects with Everyman we were contacted by their appointed architects Fusion Design & Architecture at early planning stages to assist with wall designs at their unique new cinema in Maida Vale, London. We were chosen as a nominated, specialist subcontractor for the wall treatments in Screen 1 & 2 to realise Fusions designs.

Challenges

The main challenge was to provide assistance to the main contractor in their first cinema fit out under extremely tight timescales. Due to the layout of the existing building re-fit the 2No screens provided different challenges based on their individual layouts and sizes with Screen 2 being particularly difficult to design out fully prior to our start on site. With any central London fit out space is always at a premium and it was necessary to tailor our crew and equipment to ensure our works had minimum impact on the main contractor's concurrent activities.

Solutions

We were able to assist the main contractor in specific design detailing and site readiness required prior to our works commencing in each screen ensuring that we kept to our agreed programme. With the unique layout in Screen 2 we were able to tailor the installation on site to achieve the best results after discussions with the architects, main contractor and the client. Our flexibility on site was the key to completing on time and to budget with our works being planned on a daily basis with the main contractor to ensure all trades could work effectively together in such close proximity.

Results

The project was completed on time and to budget ensuring that trades following on from us were allowed as much time as possible. The finished article was a great success and each screen has a truly "intimate" feel, thanks in no small part to the Fusion design team vision on the wall designs and throughout this unique development.

Client Testimonial

I am delighted with the quality and appearance of the Sound Solutions installation to the screen walls.

Their site and management teams had a 'can do' approach on a very busy and congested site. Within tight time constraints they delivered an excellent result."
