Background

After our previous installation of acoustic separation walls around their wind tunnel we were successful with our tender for Scuderia Toro Rosso's expansion works. Their success created the need to expand their operations into a nearby unoccupied warehouse unit to facilitate various technical operations and provide additional office space.

Challenges

As with any expansion program budgets are a key factor whilst maintaining highest possible standards in keeping with the Formula One team's vision.

We were asked to help design out the new open plan warehouse space at an early stage to ensure all technical requirements were met and the multi-use of the space achieved in the most cost effective way.

With F1 teams only having a 2 week shut down we had to tailor solutions to meet this fast track construction period and avoid our client being inconvenienced.

Solutions

After discussions with our client and their workforce we were able to propose and design various layout options based on the intended uses and the warehouse space provided. These designs progressed whilst keeping a close eye on the need for 'future proofing' the areas for possible further alterations.

A combination of traditional office partitioning and industrial construction were used to form these multi-use areas to create the balance between practical robustness and pleasing aesthetics.

Our previous experience with fast track interior fit outs allowed us to assist our client in providing achievable solutions in order to meet the tight timescales involved.

Results

The project was completed on time and to budget furthering our relationship with this exciting and expanding Formula One team.

All areas have been completed to meet Scuderia Toro Rosso's high standards whilst conforming to our initial design brief and time allowed on site.

Client Testimonial

Sound Solutions have completed several successful projects for us over the last two years.

We have found them to be very responsive and their professional attitude, workmanship and final finish exceeds the quality we expect from our suppliers.

We will certainly be considering them on our future interior office and acoustic requirements.
